THE BRAND

innit

A PART OF KNIGHTSBRIDGE LUXURY GROUP

Gotta be innit to win it.

THE IDEA

Innit turns “are you in?” into a brand

For UK adults who love the thrill of a big prize, Innit is the draw that makes being in it simple, social and straight-talking, backed by a luxury group you can check.

Who it’s for

UK adults 18–40, phone-first, who share wins with friends. Entries of £5–£30, never a stretch.

What it stands for

Being part of the moment: live draws, real winners, entry caps and odds on every draw.

How it feels

Quick, warm and very British. Confident about the prizes, honest about the chances.

THE LOGO

Innit leads; the group endorses

One-sixth rule

The endorsement line is one-sixth of the wordmark's height. It never grows past that.

K stays with the group

The K emblem appears only beside the endorsement, never as the Innit symbol.

Small sizes

Under 160px wide, drop the endorsement and use the wordmark or the ticket alone.

App icon · the punched ticket

THE SYMBOL

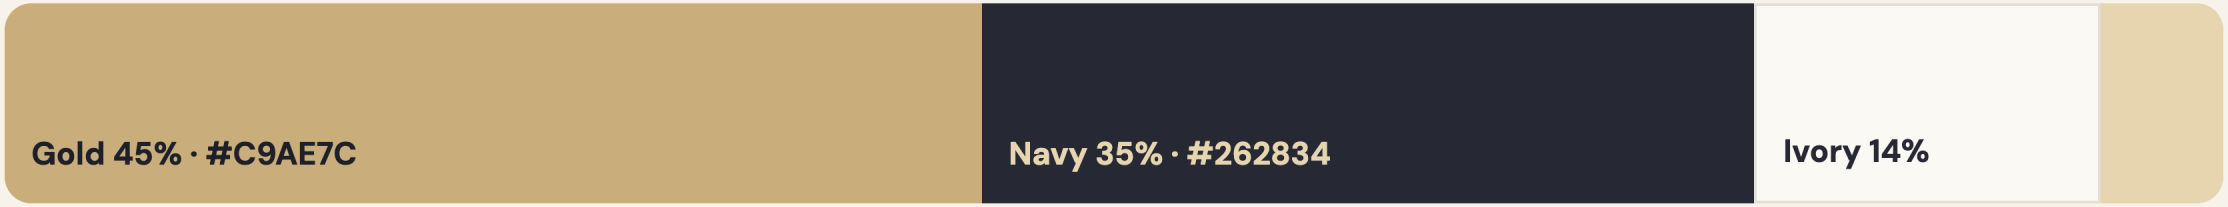

A punched ticket means you’re in

The gold dots on the two i’s are the same punch holes, carried into the wordmark. One idea runs from the logo to the moment of entry.

- App icon and favicon
- The “You’re in” confirmation, punched as you pay
- Loading states and the live-draw countdown

COLOUR AND TYPE

Same palette, turned up to gold

Be in it.

Montserrat Black for headlines: short, sentence case, ending on a full stop.

VOICE

Playful about the prize, straight about the chances

We say

Gotta be innit to win it.
You in?
I’m in.
You’re in.
Not this time.

We never say

- ✕ Change your life
- ✕ Easy money
- ✕ Guaranteed winner
- ✕ Last chance!!!

Short sentences. British, warm, a wink, never a nudge.

“Ends tonight” only when it does. Odds and entry caps sit next to every price.

Nothing that suggests money worries, and nothing that speaks to under-18s.

Guardrails: CAP Code, DCMS voluntary code, DMCC Act (no false urgency)

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN

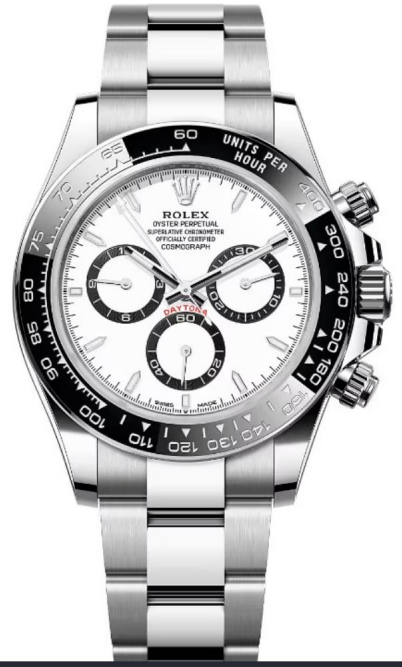

“Be in it.”: two words, the whole brand

Be in it.

BEFORE LAUNCH

Three checks before the brand goes public

Clear the name

UK IPO trademark search for Innit, the logo and the full line; .co.uk and .com domains; Instagram and TikTok handles.

Clear the wording

Solicitor approves “Gotta be innit to win it.”, the endorsement line and the free-entry and 18+ statements.

Test the creative

Run two launch ads to UK adults for two weeks before go-live and keep the one with the lower sign-up cost.
